Here’s what one parent said about her seminar experience:

“Grace’s seminars have been an eye-opening experience. School districts have a different agenda at your child’s IEP meeting than you do. As a parent, your agenda is to get a “Free and Appropriate Education” for your child, as the law states. Grace has helped me to learn how to do this. She is very knowledgeable, very accessible, and very helpful as a tutor for me as I develop the special education plan of my child. I have also used Grace as a private consultant with drawing up my child’s current IEP, something I wish I had begun doing two or three years ago. Don’t leave the direction of your child’s special education in the hands of your school district officials. They are good people who will never care as much about your child’s success as you will. Grace can help you take the mystery out of this process.” --Kris--

I know how to create and nurture productive, professional, mutually-respectful relationships with educators and administrators. I can teach you what the law requires school districts to do to ensure your child receives continuous educational benefit. I can teach you the advocacy skills you need to professionally assert your concerns and child’s goals in IEP meetings. I will attend IEP meetings. --Graciela--
